Fairview Notes

In speaking of the autumn a poet once said, "The melancholy days have come, the saddest in the year." But there are no sad melancholy days at Fairview. The children come to school bright and early. Their buoyant spirits are contagious. It would be well if we that are older could for a time forget the worries and trials that added years have brought and hearken back to the days that are gone. Let us learn a lesson from a little child and play again. Our people are doing their best to keep up a full attendance, as we realize that only by this means can we get our just benefit from the state funds, enjoy real profit from our school. The teacher can do nothing for the boy or girl kept at home.

Mr. F. P. Wiggins, an old and honored citizen of District 11, passed away Monday night, September 12, at 11:30 o'clock. He has been in very bad health for some time. He was buried at the Warr cemetery Tuesday at 2 o'clock. He leaves a wife and young son, Gail, to whom we offer our sympathy.

Y. S. Murphy went to St. Joseph's hospital September 7th, was operated on Saturday morning. He is getting along nicely now in every respect. We hope he will be up in a few weeks and soon be able to come home again. His wife has been with him, but has come home now.

J. C. Attaway and A. T. Crawford were up in this country buying cattle last week.

R. M. Johnson, a prominent business man of this district, started in the Raleigh business Monday September 12. He has had splendid success so far. We hope he will continue having good success.

Game seems to be more plentiful this year than usual. Rabbits are to be seen in the late afternoon, along the roadside. While experienced hunters find plenty of squirrels in the woods. There is an unusual amount of quails here and opossums are numerous.

The light winter was beneficial to the boll weevils. They are so numerous that a great deal of the young cotton is damaged.

Several bales of cotton have been ginned around here. More would be ginned but there has been so much squall ready to make up so the farmers have not had any time to pick much cotton.

SURGEONS agree that in cases of Cuts, Burns, Bruises and Wounds, the FIRST TREATMENT is most important. When an EFFICIENT antiseptic is applied promptly, there is no danger of infection and the wound begins to heal at once. For use on man or beast, BOROZONE is the IDEAL ANTISEPTIC and HEALING AGENT. Buy it now and be ready for an emergency. Sold by Cartmell, Gillmann Drug Co.

Leach-Conover

Thursday afternoon at five o'clock in St. John's Episcopal church was solemnized the marriage of Miss Margaret Clare Conover and Mr. Julian Gilbert Leach.

Rev. Dr. Walter C. Whitaker, rector of St. John's, was the celebrant and the wedding music was under the direction of Professor Frank Nelson, organist and choir master of St. John's.

The church was decorated with ferns and palms and at the pulpit and in the chancel were brass vases filled with roses.

The bridal procession on entering the church was led by the ushers, Messrs. Irvin Saxton, Wallace and Charles M. Cowan, of this city, and Mr. H. D. Parker, of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Next to enter were the bride's attendants, Miss Ruth Clark, maid of honor; Miss Elizabeth Fairchilds and Miss Marjorie Charter, of New York, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaids.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. James Harvey Cowan and the groom had as his best man his brother, Mr. E. J. Leach, of Minneapolis.

The bride's robes were of white satin with garniture of roses, point lace and the bridal bouquet was an arrangement of bride's roses, swansonias and maiden hair fern.

The maid of honor was exquisitely gowned in rose colored taffeta with picture hat and carried an arm bouquet of pink radiance roses.

The two bridesmaids wore organdie gowns and picture hats in jade green tinting and their flowers were arm bouquet of pink roses.

Following the church ceremonies the bridal party and out-of-town guests were entertained by Mrs. Edith Saxton Conover, mother of the bride, at her home on Dandridge pike with a buffet supper.

Mrs. Conover had her home very beautifully decorated, the nuptial color scheme of white and green being emphasized in all the scheme of decoration.

In the dining room the picture table was centered with a mound of white bride's roses and ferns.

The white and green motif was introduced in serving the delicious menu.

Mr. Leach, who formerly resided in Somerville, is a graduate of the University of Tennessee, of which institution Miss Conover is one of the alumnae.

Mr. Leach is now a member of the faculty of the University of Minnesota and he and his bride after their bridal tour are to go to make their home in Minneapolis. Knoxville Journal Tribune

Lipsky-Goldman

The immediate families of the contracting parties and a few friends attended the wedding in Memphis last Sunday afternoon of Mr. Sol Lipsky of this city to Miss Babette Goldman of Memphis, the ceremony being performed by Dr. William Fineshriber of the Jewish Synagogue at his home.

Mr. Lipsky is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Lipsky of Somerville and is a member of the firm of Folsom-Lipsky Company, automobile dealers here, and is one of the city's best known young men with a fine business prospect. He was raised and educated in Somerville and has cast his lot with her people by entering business here, and is popular with a wide circle of friends in the city and county who join in wishing him and his bride a most happy and joyful and successful journey thru life.

The bride is a resident of Memphis and has visited frequently in Somerville where she is deservedly popular and will find a warm and hearty welcome to Somerville when she and her husband return from a week's honeymoon in Chicago and St. Louis to make their home here.

Marguerite Stainback Wins First Place on The Tennessee Judging Team

The West Tennessee Judging Contest was held over at Jackson last week during the Fair. Twenty-two club girls from the various counties of West Tennessee entered in the contest. They judged bread, poultry, and canned goods; working faithfully two whole days.

Marguerite Stainback and Abne Douglass of this county entered the contest. Marguerite won second, and Abne won fifth. These girls had had very little training, compared with the girls from the other counties; all of whom had special training by the State Poultry Specialist and Home Economics Specialist in their camps during the summer.

Our girls proved what Fayette County Club girls can do, and we are very proud of them.

There were four rewards offered. A Dyer county girl won first, and will be given a trip to Chicago. The three girls who won second, third, and fourth will form the Tennessee Judging Team, to judge against the Arkansas and Mississippi Team at the Tri State Fair. These girls will be given all their expenses and entertained by the Fair Association while there.

Since Marguerite won second, she will have the honor of being first on the Tennessee Team. We feel sure she will do her part to make our state team the winning team. By Miss JACOCKZ

Rev. W. Q. Maer Leaves for Seminary

On September 4th, the resignation of our pastor, Rev. W. Q. Maer took effect and on this day he preached his farewell sermon to the Baptist church at this place. After a period of two years he has labored with us and while it was with reluctant hearts we accepted his resignation, yet we are glad to know that there are no reasons why he should sever his relations with us, other than to pursue his course at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Kentucky.

The value of the coming of Bro. Maer cannot be estimated and his leaving us does not mean that his work is finished, for the seeds he has sown here will tell for time and eternity.

The church has been placed upon higher plains of Christian living and thinking of which we attribute to the combination of characteristics possessed by our beloved pastor, that of our energy, ambition, enthusiasm, perseverance and a beautiful Christ-like spirit.

The going of Bro. Maer and his consecrated wife will be a distinct loss and as they sever their relations with us to take up their work in another field, wherever the Master may direct, the prayers of this church will ever be that God will continue His divine blessings upon them, giving them power, strength and wisdom to carry on the noble work which they have so successfully begun and that we covet an interest in their prayers for the advancement of our Master's Kingdom here. A BAPTIST

The Home Newspaper

BY T. F. PECK
Commissioner of Agriculture

I want to say a few words to the farmers about home newspaper. May be it is not all you think it should be. If so, does it ever occur to you that if it does not come out to your ideas of what it should be that you may be in a measure, responsible for its shortcomings.

The home newspaper is dependent upon the home people for its support. If the home people do not properly support it, naturally it cannot be what it could be if it were well supported by the community.

Your home paper can be worth more to you if you support it liberally than any other like investment that you can make. I see nearly all the papers in the State and I find without exception everyone of them, even where they do not have the liberal backing of their communities, is standing up for its home section.

You depend upon your home paper for the local news. You expect it to mention your coming and going, the visits of your friends, sickness or death, wedding and births. When any new movement is started for the community, you expect the paper to boost it. You expect much of your home paper, and I want you to compare what you contribute toward its support with what you expect of it. You must realize that from no source do you get so much for your money.

You can help your paper serve your community better by co-operating with its giving it news that it would otherwise be hard for it to secure. I speak from experience, for I published a weekly newspaper for many years, and I know what they have to contend with.

The newspaper is always awake to things that are worth while to its section. It gives freely of its space to suggestions for the agricultural methods, better livestock, etc., and publishes the activities of the corn clubs, the pig clubs, the tomato clubs and other organizations, and is always glad to feature the picnics, institutes and social gatherings of farmers and their families. It is always active for better schools, better churches and better roads.

It is the fault of the people themselves if they cannot pick up their home paper and get it in all the news of the community and of the county. If you have a community or county fair it is your home paper that plays it up and records your progress as evidenced by the exhibits and premiums awarded.

We get benefits from any movement, society or organization in proportion to the interest we manifest in it. Your interest in and support of your home paper will always bring you satisfactory returns. While local pride ought to prompt you to support your paper, it should not be overlooked that your own prosperity and the prosperity of your community can be advanced by a live newspaper, it must have your support.

I am very much gratified to see a marked improvement in the newspapers of the State. I believe the people are beginning to more fully realize the important part the newspapers have in the development of the country. If your home paper is not what you think it should be, see if one of the chief reasons is not in the neglect of those who should give their support and encouragement. It costs money to run a newspaper. A community without a newspaper could not labor under greater handicap. Let your home newspaper know that you will do your part in its support, and do not get the notion that you are performing an act of charity when you pay your subscription. You are simply doing good business and making a good investment.

When you appreciate your home paper at its worth, you will class it as one of your indispensable local enterprises. The prosperity of your community in which you live means much to you. Your home paper means much in the promotion of that prosperity.

Despondency

Suffers from indigestion are apt to become discouraged and feel that complete recovery is not to be hoped for. No one could make a greater mistake. Hundreds have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Tablets and now can eat anything that they crave. These tablets strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. If you have not tried them do so at once. adv.

James W. Boswell

Fayette county lost another of her oldest citizens Monday when death came to James W. Boswell at the home of his brother, T. J. Boswell, at Macon, where deceased had resided for a long time.

Mr. Boswell was born at Macon 63 years ago and had lived in that community all his life except three years when he lived in Arkansas. He was of sixteen children born to his parents, of whom only five now left, T. J. Boswell of Macon and E. J. Boswell of Moscow, and John W. Boswell of Nashville, and one sister living in Arkansas and one in Mississippi.

Beside the above, he leaves his widow and numerous other relatives in this county and elsewhere. Burial was at Macon on Tuesday of this week.

Method of Killing Peach Tree Borers

Paradichlorobenzene is a big word and any material with such a name ought to kill anything. However, just at present it is being recommended by entomologists of the University of Tennessee as an excellent insecticide for peach borers.

In controlling the peach tree borer with this material, certain precautions are necessary in order not to injure the trees. First of all try out the material on a small scale to get acquainted with it, on trees 6 years or older. The borers should be cut out of trees younger than 6 years in the usual way. Use ounce of the material in a narrow continuous band about 2 inches from the tree on smooth ground about the base of the tree. Dirt free of sticks and stones in them place on top of the material 4 to 6 inches deep and packed down. The best time to make applications is the first week in October.

All crystals of paradichlorobenzene should be at least 1 inch from the tree. It may be purchased from the Rochester Germicide Company, Rochester, N. Y., for about 30 cents a pound.

Sources of Good Seed in Tennessee

During the past summer a few desirable fields of wheat, oats and barley were located and examined for seed purposes in several East Tennessee counties by the department of agronomy of the University of Tennessee with the co-operation of county agricultural agents. An examination for purity, weight and quality of grain was made in the University laboratories after the fields were threshed. Anyone wishing to procure good seed of Apple or Falcaster wheat, or beardless barley, will be put in touch with the growers of these inspected fields by writing to the Department of Agronomy, University of Tennessee Knoxville.

Club Boys and Girls Market Carload of Hogs

A. B. Harmon, county agent for Montgomery County, established a new record in boys and girls club work last week when he sent to the Nashville market a carload of purebred Duroc Jersey hogs that had been fitted for market by boys and girls club members in his county. Pig clubs have been especially popular for the past few years, but this is the first time in the history of work in Tennessee that a sufficient number of boys and girls were induced to feed out enough hogs to make a carload.

The hogs were bought by the Power Packing Plant for local slaughter, bringing a premium of 25 cents per 100 pounds over the top of the market.

In speaking of the purchase of the Montgomery County boys and girls pigs, R. E. Power, president of the Packing Company said:

"As a local institution, we are naturally keenly interested in the development of the livestock industry in the South, and especially so in as far as Middle Tennessee is concerned. The splendid work that is being done by the county agents in the organization of boys and girls clubs is outstanding. In this section of the country we must look to agriculture for our prosperity, livestock raising and feeding is very closely linked with agriculture, and I honestly believe that the effort to teach these boys and girls on the farms the science of producing good hogs and good cattle at the lowest cost per pound is going to mean a great deal for these youngsters."

"We all know that well-bred and properly finished animals yield the greatest returns to the producer, and likewise, the well-bred and properly finished animal is always more desirable on the part of the packer. We paid a premium of 25 cents per 100 pounds for these pigs, not because they were better than others that are coming to the market, but because we feel that the every effort of this character on the part of the boys and girls should be encouraged."

Mr. Harmon reports that there are 120 active members of boys and girls pig clubs in Montgomery County. There are three classes of members—those who are handling pure-bred animals for breeding purposes, those who have taken bred sows and bred gilts with the view of raising the pigs and feeding them out, and those who took pigs and are feeding them out for commercial purposes, as was the case of pigs that were marketed here last week. Mr. Harmon further says that his club members were highly pleased and that they all made money. As is the case with the grown up, some were better feeders than others and consequently made a better profit. Some of them, after paying for the pig and the feed, made 100 per cent profit on their original investment which demonstrates the profit there is in converting corn into pork. Plans are now being formulated to greatly increase the pig club membership in Montgomery for another year.
